Clarifying the Quandary

Good Morning and Happy New Year and New Era! So now we are not only at the beginning of a new year but a new era, and the very early stages of the latest Golden Age.

To recap, the new world of the Fifth Dimension (5D), which is run by God, split from the Third Dimension (3D), the old world which was run by darkness. We are still in a time of transition. Many in 5D don't know they are there. Those in 3D are still dealing in duality (good/bad, dark/light) whereas those of us in 5D have it easier and it will continue to get better. The challenge of those in 5D is that they still are operating out of memory and 3D programming so it still looks much the same as before. It especially looks that way when you watch the news, which is predominately 3D. As I now relate to it, if you are in Heaven, do you want to watch what is going on in hell?

But, the hell that people are now experiencing is largely due to their own programming. The dark leadership has been removed from power. What remains are their followers and those who have been programmed from their past experiences of manipulation, oppression, persecution, etc. Also remaining is the misinformation perpetrated from the darkness who manipulated what humanity learned to believe as true.

It was my responsibility to clear the cause of darkness and the fallen angel's and humanity's karma, and I was fortunately successful. That sounds good, right? Yes, I fulfilled my requirements for this lifetime. I did what I came here to accomplish. A hard-won and exhaustive fight with darkness and we were successful.

The dark leadership is no longer running the world. Because of that, we apparently were successful in preventing World War III. And, according to Jesus, we prevented that occurring several times because of clearing the darkness that would have instigated it. More good news is that many ascended to 5D where Heaven on Earth exists. It also means I was finished with my life's work. But now what?

The challenge for humanity is that the time of tribulation began when the split occurred. I would assume people would like the help to get through it and ascend the next time the gates of Heaven reopen if they didn't make the cut this time. It's an option that is not guaranteed everyone automatically achieve.

So, here's the quandary. What do we do about it? Personally, I was told I didn't have to do anything more unless I wanted to. God and Archangel Michael asked me to work on phase two of this project of setting humanity free. Now that the cause of darkness is cleared, this would include clearing the effects of darkness. Part of that is becoming even more of a public figure to elaborate on all this to help set people free through education. The other piece is clearing the challenges humanity still face.

The challenge I personally feel is I did much of clearing of the cause of humanity's karma on my own and through some client sessions when they were related to significant historical events. Global clearing of darkness came at a great cost to me personally, however. I think the bigger challenge I face now is having to communicate information to people who are mostly unresponsive. Why unresponsive? Because they have been brainwashed by the misinformation they have been trained to believe. Most people don't accept that I am the feminine (Archangel Faith) aspect of Archangel Michael on the planet, which is why I had this unusual role. Until people accept who I am, they won't accept much of the information that will set them free. Without their acceptance, any advice or assistance as to how to thrive during this time of tribulation, will likely remain unheard and without benefit.

There are many things coming our way that are not even considered yet, and even delivering those benefits to people is a challenge when they aren't necessarily open to receiving them. As one unearthly being recently stated, there is a lot of technology they want to bring forth to benefit those on Earth but the infighting is a cause of concern and they don't want to allow it to get into the wrong hands.

Humanity often wants help. They don't necessarily want to pay for it, however. Some want God to come out of the clouds and just fix things. I'm not even sure everyone realizes that God works through people. He works through me but would like to work through everyone to help them to help change their lives and the world.

There's a lot of work to create the experience of Heaven on Earth for all and I cannot do it myself nor fund it myself. So, now I sit considering options and wondering should I continue and if humanity would like my help, how to best serve them without sacrificing myself, etc. I always believe in a win/win and now it is the time for humanity to help themselves win.

Wishing you a wonderful weekend.

Faithfully yours,

Joy
