Why Go Public as Archangel Michael's Twin Flame?

Following the announcement Archangel Michael made about my being his twin flame, people had questions. Because announcing that I am Archangel Michael's twin flame is controversial, people have asked why it was important to go public with the information.

I asked why it is important to go public. I was perfectly comfortable and preferred keeping that private for several reasons. First, I didn't think anyone would believe me. My heavenly colleagues confirmed that would be the case. This information goes against popular opinion. The only way someone would recognize it as truth is if they resonated high enough to access the information themselves.

Even channels would not be in a position to verify the information if they didn't resonate high enough. If they could receive the information accurately, it would also have to be filtered through their ego and that could block their accuracy. One of the reasons I have information verified by trusted colleagues [those I know who do resonate high enough], is I want to make sure my ego is not in the way at any juncture. If I am too attached to what I think I know, or want to believe, or if I have fear of the truth, I could block my own accuracy. That is one of the reasons my heavenly colleagues worked on removing much of my ego.

That is not to say fear didn't come up before coming out with this news. It's not easy being a person who was raised to be concerned what everyone thought and wanting to be liked and then go public with controversial information. I knew what human nature is and how people could react to information that goes against their belief system, etc. Now, to answer the actual question. I have been asked to help clear the effects of darkness on humanity. I have already cleared the cause of darkness. Humanity is still operating at the effect. In order for me to be most effective, it is useful for people to know who I actually am. Carrying the same soul as Archangel Michael will explain to many people some of the credentials I have for being able to know and clear certain information.

The role is something I had to grow into, clear for and battle over. I had to battle both my own personal fears as well as darkness that was operating through others to undermine me. Apparently, darkness knew who's soul I carried and my purpose before I did.

Believe me, when Michael came to me in 2004 announcing I was him incarnate, I didn't quite get what that meant. When he asked me to join him in a healing practice, I didn't quite get the full scope and ramifications of that. I had to grow in understanding as well as skill set.

I am reminded of the day I stood on my balcony with him by my side and a demon appeared and I got rid of it while Michael just stood there. I was mad that he did nothing. Of course, now I realize it was part of my preparation of what was to come. If he had alerted me to the full scope of my duties and plans, however, I would likely have felt inadequate, frightened and not move forward to work with him.

So, they helped me evolve into the role. I kept hearing I had the role of a lifetime and it certainly turned out to be. But if I had been privy consciously to the full job description and expectations, I may have declined. It was only because my soul knew my purpose that I kept going and the awareness and skills were developed.

My coming out apparently had a profound affect already without doing the work they are preparing me for next. The report has been there is much more light in the universe due to making my announcement that I am Archangel Michael's twin flame. I have heard staggering numbers of souls awakening due to the news. That awakening continues to expand as the more light there is the more that light expands.

The more light, the quicker we can achieve peace on earth and all can experience more joy, love, freedom, balance and abundance.
