The World is Changing

The world has been coming to an end as you have known it. There has been much struggle and strife with which all have dealt far too long. It is time to begin letting go of that struggle knowing there is a new way and new opportunity before you. A life of ease and grace exists as a possibility. You have only to embrace it by letting go of all that no longer serves you.

What doesn't serve you? fear, lack, limitation, hiding your truth, denial, regret, loneliness, guilt, unforgiveness, etc. All evidence of separation from source. The source of all lies within your own heart. You have only to embrace it there to engage in and access all there is.

By letting go of the past, you open yourself to the possibilities of the present. All possibility is accessible through your inner knowing accessed through your heart, the center of all and gateway to the abundance that exists for you now.

Embrace the now and access all there is through your heart. Merge with your soul through your heart and engage in the gifts it has in store for you. Your destiny is love, joy, peace, balance and abundance.

If you have trouble letting go of any of the above, you know you can always seek my help as that is what I do - help you let go of negative past memories and emotions. But, you can also do it yourself in a moment you choose - REALLY choose to let go and be at peace - regaining all through the power of forgiveness of self and others.

As God has told some of my clients through me in a number of our channeled sessions. "I forgave you a long time ago. It is now time forgive yourself."

Forgiveness and letting go seem to be two of the hardest things we have to do in life. Believe me. I have struggled with it too. And what a difference after you have let go. Do

Her pro bono work focuses on a global peace and prosperity initiative healing the cause of the imbalances to atrocities of life affecting all.

Business Case Study

One of my clients was frustrated and fearful as her business dried up substantially. Her results were somewhat inconsistent. Sometimes she flourished and at other times suffered greatly. Every time we would do a clearing, her business would pick up. All her business was reflecting was her state of mind at the time. When we identified the past life that was activated at the time that was causing her a challenge and released it, her phone began ringing.

In each case, a different past-life memory was identified and cleared. During a session there could be several past lives revealed. What occurs is some memory causes the programming within which life is reflected back. When the programming is released, what is projected becomes a different reality. She feels better after the session, business improves and then something else becomes activated and projected. We then know it's time to clear something else due the results she is experiencing at the time.

When you experience a life of ease and effortless, joy, love, peace and abundance, you know you have nothing left to clear.
